

Twass the month before Christmas and all through the net
Scammers were phishing to see what they get
The emails were sent to folks everywhere
In hopes to find clickers, who click without care

The traps were all set with offers galore
For discounts, or cruises, or gift cards, and more
Some even threaten to pause your account
If you don't click and pay some hefty amount

But luckily we are much smarter than they We've studied and trained in a practical way
We see the signs of a suspected attack
And thwart their attempt with a pat on the back

We check that the mail is from a known sender
And verify links to sites from each vendor
We never fall for requests for quick cash
And links to change passwords we put in the trash

In the event, we're not sure if it's real
We call the IT staff to see what they feel
They put the offender's name on a wall just kidding, they don't do that at all ;)